Description

Design And Performance Highlights For The Wave Collection?

The most noticeable technology applied on the entry level Wave collection is the optimized Stringer Tech. With a 13cm wide center stringer all the way double taped, it enhances the board stiffness significantly compared to traditional single layer SUPs. The other highlight is the 6"/15cm thickness on all Aquatone boards. This gives users an extremely stable ride, especially if you are new to the sport.

The Wave collection offers a wider board shape. The 32" width provides stability while still maintains a good design to glide

Who Is It Best Suited For?

The 10'6" is best suited for:

- Beginner to intermediate rider
- Leisure paddler
- Average to Tall height
- Average to Heavy weight

Overall, the Wave SUPs remain to be the best option for leisure paddle. They're user-friendly, versatile, and is a SUP which keeps on giving.

Tips For Using The Wave SUP?

The Wave is best for calm water, or near-shore water. The front rocker is purposely made to 27cm to cope when it gets choppy and can even handle small waves.
